A Practical Guide to Culture for Upper School parents

“Some Christian parents, oblivious to any danger, send their kids into the culture headfirst. Others think total protection is the answer, prohibiting their kids from ever dipping a toe in the cultural waters until they’re out on their own. Most of us vacillate between these extremes, depending on the issue and maybe the child. Neither extreme, however, will bring about the vision of a courageous, new generation of Christ-followers, able and willing to not only navigate the cultural waters without drowning but also emerge as leaders in the days ahead.”

Matt Skinner, Heritage President, and Erin Hames, Heritage Headmaster and mother, will lead this conversation about how to help the next generation navigate today’s world. Parents are encouraged to read A Practical Guide to Culture in advance of the workshop, but Upper School parents are invited to attend whether or not they have read the book. This book was required summer reading for all Heritage faculty and staff.
